Dear Friends,

I sit and write this at the beginning of Interfaith Week, just after the sad news of the terrorist activity in Paris. The title of this year's Interfaith Week is 'Living Well Together'. It is aimed at developing an understanding of how people of different faiths can live and work together peacefully and happily. In order for us to do this there must be some understanding of difference, and appreciation that not all people think as we might do. Their belief systems may be very different from ours, their culture may make them look at things slightly differently, but we can all appreciate the differences because that is what makes up communities. If we avoid those of different faiths or beliefs than ourselves, we are not being true to ourselves as well as others. In any community we need to share and respect difference because if we don't then there can be consequences.

It may well be relatively easy to do this in smaller communities and in our villages but we have to be ready to look outside and to value difference in the world around us. If we want to live in a peaceful community, whether local, national or international, we have to be prepared to put aside prejudice and become accepting of difference.

The consequence of terrorist activity is that we lose trust in others who are different or who may have a different faith to ourselves, but if we do that the terrorists have won. If we are to be true peacemakers, whether locally or farther afield, we have to, in the words of Jesus, 'love our neighbour as ourselves' and that means trying to get to know them and to understand them and, most importantly, to respect their point of view. You may not always agree with it but you can respect it as you respect difference. If we all tried hard to be more understanding and accepting then perhaps 'Living Together Well' will be as natural as breathing. Each of us has a responsibility to future generations to do so in the hope that peace will eventually reign here on earth. In the words of a song by Jill Jackson Miller, 'let there be peace on earth and let it begin with me'.

Every blessing for the Christmas season, Rev Cate

CHURCH REPAIR FUND

We launched this appeal a couple of months ago and the response has been amazing. Over £4,000 has been donated by individuals, about £2,500 raised at the silent auction and now we have received the outstanding amount from the village shop. It is overwhelming and goes to show what a wonderful community we live in. A huge thank you to all who have helped achieve this spectacular result. The generosity of individuals, the support of local organizations, and the concern for the maintenance of our beautiful church is obvious. On behalf of the PCC, a sincere thank you to everybody. What a wonderful achievement! The church has other maintenance issues to be dealt with in the near future, but for the minute we have a sound roof.

Payhembury Youth Club

It is with regret that I report the youth club is experiencing difficult times. We have been running the junior section by relying on the considerable efforts of Jenny Ireland, who is working way beyond what she originally agreed to, and Robin Elsom who is running the senior section as the only volunteer. As the situation stands we require more people to come forward to help at sessions and to give up some of their time to be on the committee. If this doesn't happen we will have no option but to close the doors immediately after Christmas. The youth club puts in huge effort to run the Party in the Park each year and so we will be looking for groups to take this over if we aren't able to attract more help. We also need to give notice that the AGM will have to be rescheduled due to unforeseen circumstances.

Clarets' Corner

Since my last Clarets' Corner Burnley FC have been unbeaten, with three wins and two draws, but the match all Burnley fans look forward to is against Blackburn Rovers, so what a great result it was at Ewood Park with a brilliant 1-0 victory (still buzzing!) A well known Arsenal fan from the Upton area is convinced the Clarets have no chance of promotion, so we've had a private bet, and I can't wait to collect my winnings in May! It's very busy this time of year with Christmas quizzes and bingo and, of course, all the extra mail. This is my last Clarets' Corner for 2015 so can I wish everybody a very HAPPY CHRISTMAS and a GREAT NEW YEAR!

See you around the village and UP THE CLARETS!

Village Carol Singing Monday 21st December

Everyone is invited to come and join in with carol singing around the village and outer lying areas. This is a great opportunity to sing your favourite carols whilst raising money for The Village Charity, with all proceeds being given back to local people and families as the charity supports parishioners experiencing difficult times.

We will meet on the village green at 6pm, so please come and join us, and remember to wrap up warm and bring a torch. Any offers of drivers to taxi carollers around the outer lying areas would be very much appreciated. We will finish the evening at The Six Bells for a well deserved drink. See you there!

Any queries, please contact Lesley Elford on 850356.

Payhembury Poppy Appeal

Once again Payhembury put its hands in its pockets and dug deep to support the British Legion as they care for the military, past and present. As usual people have been most generous.

Our grand total was £298, a great sum for a little village like ours and I would like to thank everyone for their generosity and in particular Peter Cocker and Alan Jones who kindly gave their time to call on houses with collecting tins.

HOME LIBRARY SERVICE

Do you know someone who enjoys reading but can no longer get to the library? If so, the Home Library Service may be the answer. Home Library Service volunteers choose books for their clients, based on what the clients have said they enjoy, and deliver them at a convenient time. We can bring large print books or audio CDs as well as ordinary print books.

For people who enjoy reading, the service offers access to the library and a visit from a friendly face. Often clients and volunteers become lasting friends. There is no charge for the service and no fines if books are returned late! Clients may keep books as long as needed and order particular books too.

We deliver the books to people in their homes, whether they are living independently or in residential care. The service is provided by Royal Voluntary Service (formerly WRVS) volunteers working with Devon Libraries. All volunteers are checked by the Disclosure and Barring Service (formerly CRB) before being allowed to make visits.

Please do get in touch if you would like to know more. You can phone the Royal Voluntary Service on 0778 663 5163, access the following web address: <http://www.devon.gov.uk/peoplewithspecificneeds.htm> or contact the library at Honiton on 01404 42818 or at Ottery St Mary on 01404 813838. We look forward to hearing from you.

Elizabeth Twining, Co-ordinator, Honiton Home Library Service

Broadhembury and District Gardening Club

Last month, we welcomed back Neil Lovesey who spoke about herbs explaining that all herbs have different growing requirements so should not be planted together in a herb garden. Valerie brought along a selection of seeds and seed heads and explained how to collect, store and most importantly, label them.

Our next meeting will be on Wednesday 2nd December when Elizabeth Holman will talk about Christmas swags. Please bring along secateurs and Christmas decorations, i.e. balls and candles, etc., as we shall attempt our own table decorations. Oasis will be provided and there will be mulled wine and mince pies.

Our first meeting of 2016 will be on Wednesday 6th January when Mike and Edna Squires will talk about plant heritage. Both meetings will be at 7.30pm in Broadhembury Memorial Hall.

Yellingham Farm Diary – November

I have just re-read my October notes and I was writing about the exciting time of getting the rams ready and putting them in with the ewes. Where has the last month gone? This week we took the rams out and looking at the coloured rumps of my ewes, tugging has gone well – I hope!

Taking the rams out is a mission in itself. Well perhaps that's a bit of an exaggeration. The problem is that you cannot just throw the various rams that have been working back in a field together if they have been separated for tugging, which mine have, as I have two different flocks – my Jacobs and my Black Welsh Mountains. They can, and will, hurt each other and I have known a friend who made the mistake and a ram was killed. Doesn't bear thinking about. So to avoid such problems, I pen up my rams together after removing them from the ewes and put them into a very tight pen no bigger than a couple of metres square. They can fight as much as they like but the damage is limited as they cannot reverse very far and charge each other, which they do. Both my big large mature rams have enormous horns and when they head butt the noise is frightening. After a day or so, depending on how things are going, I make the pen a bit larger and when I am confident that they have got their anger out of their system I let them back out into the field. Normally this takes a couple of days. So that job is complete.

So with the farm and animals mainly under control, the next important job for me now is apple pressing and juice making. For the first time ever I am having a professional company in to press the juice and bottle it – another little project and an opportunity to sell my produce to my guests.

Nature Notes

Observations from November

Hello again

Well, the weather has certainly changed for the worse, hasn't it. The summer migrants have left for warmer climates, and our winter visitors have arrived in force.

Have a look over Angus's orchard and you should see hundreds of fieldfares which have come from Northern Europe to spend the winter here in our balmy climate!

Fieldfares are known as 'royal thrushes' in Spain. I gather that the redwings are also about, but I don't see many around here.

There are lots of tits in our garden, alongside the many goldfinches. We have more coal tits amongst them this year who raid the nuts and seed and take them away to hide somewhere and so build up a stash! On cold days, we also see flocks of long tailed tits passing through. It's always a pleasure to see these tiny, but very pretty little birds.

On one very murky day, I looked out of the back window, and there was a lovely bird on our lawn. It lit up the scene, showing off its beautiful colours. A green woodpecker and a very handsome bird indeed, flaunting his green, red and yellow colours. As he flew off, his yellow feathers shone beautifully.

It has been suggested that I give you my phone number and e-mail address, so that you can let me know of any interesting happenings. Some of you already do this, so thank you very much.

THE GREAT BBC BULB PLANT!

A big thank you to the children involved in the church youth group, BBC, who have been busy planting flowering bulbs in the village.

Eighteen children came together one dark November evening to plant 340 daffodil bulbs on Waterloo Plot. Fortunately we dodged the rain and the children worked hard to get the bulbs into the ground before enjoying a well earned supper of soup, hot dogs and toasted marshmallows.

We look forward to seeing the fruits of their labour, and the plot being in full bloom, during the spring and hope everyone in the village enjoys the sight too!

Thanks, Becky and Penny

Parish Coffee Morning

Very many thanks to Pat Le Page for hosting the coffee morning in October. A good time was had by all and we were most grateful for the opportunity to take home delicious apples! Also our heartfelt thanks to Alan and Margaret Jones for their kind hospitality at the get together at their home in November.

We have an extra coffee morning this year! Brian and Pat Salter would like to invite everyone to join them for a coffee morning to raise funds for the church bells on Wednesday 16th December at 11am at Upton Mead where you may be assured of a warm welcome. All good wishes for Christmas to everyone.

Dear Friends

We had a shock in church this month, a pool appeared and was filled with water. What, we wondered, was this for? Was it some new way of spring cleaning?

Well, we waited to see what was happening and what a surprise, there was a Christening service, nothing unusual about that, but during this baptism, Abigail and Anna went right under the water. That certainly was a bit different from babies being held over the font! We heard Abigail and Anna making their promises to follow the teachings of Jesus and everyone sang happy songs. We mice really enjoyed it and we wondered whether we could ask Reverend Cate if she would baptize us, because we follow the teachings of Jesus and try hard to help everyone and be kind and caring.

As it's coming up to Christmas, we wondered how we could help some of our field mouse friends as they find it very cold and wet out in the fields, so we have invited our nearest field mouse families into church for Christmas lunch. They were so delighted and excited and said that they could bring some of the berries and nuts they have stored away for the winter and we will make sure we pick up lots of mince pie crumbs after the carol service and maybe find some other interesting things about in church too.

Parchina and I are trying hard to think of some presents we could make for them. Parchina thought we could make some umbrellas out of old service sheets but I don't think they would be very waterproof. What we really need are a few of Reverend Cate's polythene envelopes so let's hope she leaves some around. I have seen green ones that would make a jolly umbrella. It's great to be thinking of things we can do for others and making presents for them is such fun. Must dash. Oh, nearly forgot, Happy Christmas!

Love, Parchie and Parchina

Payhembury Weather

www.payhembury-weather.co.uk

Rainfall: October was significantly drier and so far November has been slightly drier than normal in East Devon.

Temperatures: October was an average month but so far November has been well above average in the UK, and in Payhembury, and close to record values, but cooler conditions are forecast for the second half of the month.

Weather elsewhere: Record warm October temperatures in South Africa of 48.4 deg C set the pattern for the warmest year since records began. Flash floods in the south of France caused flooding in Nice. The first named storm of the winter, Abigail, led to flooding in Cumbria on 15 November.

Feniton and Payhembury Mothers' Union

Our meeting in October was held at the home of our Treasurer, Judy. In the absence of our Leader, Paula welcomed everyone, in particular our Speaker, Chloe Brice. Paula then led us in a hymn and prayers.

An invitation has been received from the Newton Poppleford branch to join them for their Advent meeting on Friday 4th December.

A discussion took place regarding the closure of our branch due to diminishing membership and a lack of officers. It was suggested members may like to join the Ottery branch which meets on the second Tuesday each month at 2.30pm. Alternatively, members may wish to become Diocesan Members. The Secretary and Treasurer will inform the Deanery Chairman and the office in Exeter. Arrangements will be made for a closing service in church in the new year.

It was unanimously agreed that we should send £75 overseas this year, £45 to AFIA and £30 to Wheels Appeal.

Our Speaker Chloe was very helpful during our discussion and then gave us a most interesting talk, which entailed our participation, testing our craft skills! We were encouraged to think about the Wave of Prayer and reminded that it does indeed unite us. Tea and cake was enjoyed by all.

Our last meeting will be on Wednesday 9th December in the Parish Hall at Payhembury when we will celebrate the coming of Christmas with carols and readings and our usual festive tea with bring and buy sale and raffle. All friends and members from village clubs are most welcome to join us including past members, diocesan members and those who have joined us on our outings. Please let me know if you are able to come by Friday 4th December so we have an idea of numbers. Thank you.

A Moment of Remembrance in Tale

In the early evening of Sunday 8th November, over forty of the residents of Tale gathered at the Higher Tale Memorial for a moment of remembrance for the two young men from our community who did not return from France in 1918. After hearing the stories of these men from Sue Barber, an extract from John Somers' play They Dream of Home and a two minutes' silence, the last post rang out over Tale as a tribute to not only these men, but all that have fallen in armed conflict. A collection afterwards also raised a significant part of the cost of necessary restoration of the memorial to ensure that it is still legible for another 100 years.

VILLAGE TELEPHONE BOX - BOOKS WANTED!

Our beautifully refurbished telephone box which proudly stands near Waterloo Plot is soon to be put to use again - as a book exchange. Shelves have been fitted in the box so now all it needs are some books! If you have any you think others in the village would enjoy, we would love you to place them on the shelves for all to read. The idea is to exchange books so we would be grateful if parishioners could take one and replace with one, at least until the shelves are full! This is all part of the work the Parish Council is doing to revitalise Waterloo Plot. A fantastic group of volunteers from the village has worked hard to bring the Parish these changes and we hope you all enjoy them. The longer term plans for the telephone box are for it to house a defibrillator and the Parish Council has applied for funding to cover the costs of this vital piece of equipment. If successful, the defibrillator would sit happily alongside the book shelves. Happy reading!

BBC Radio visits Tale Valley

BBC Radio 4 programme Open Country is to broadcast an episode focusing on aspects of the Tale Valley. In addition to items on Hembury Fort and the Tale Valley Trust, there are interviews with people associated with the Tale Valley Community Theatre (TVCT) and the eyewitnesses who contributed to the research on the 1941 crash of a Junkers 88 German bomber in the Valley. This incident was the focus of Foresight, a 2007 play by Rose Watts, performed by TVCT in a marquee at Tuckmill. The play sold out and the audience exited the marquee near the play's end to hear Derek Johns tell how his father discovered in one of Tuckmill's fields the body of a crewman from the German plane. As he spoke in the dusk, an aeroplane bearing the Luftwaffe insignia flew over the Valley and the crash was simulated by sound and lighting effects. The programme also takes in this September's production of They Dream of Home, a promenade play written and directed by John Somers to commemorate the Payhembury men who fought and died in WW1. The programme will include material spoken by Caius Nicholas, the actor who played the lead role of Bertie Willis. Bertie's niece lives in Australia and the nephew of Thomas Dimond, who also featured in the play, lives yards for the memorial bearing his uncle's name. More details available from John Somers at J.W.Somers@exeter.ac.uk and the tvctheatre.org website.

BROADHEMBURY WI

We were stunned when Stewart Raine gave us a recent talk on 'The Changing Role of Women in the 19th Century'. The discovery we were treated as chattels, able to be sold, with no legal rights, was shocking, especially as Queen Victoria held the opinion, seemingly without irony, that women were unfit to govern! The right to custody of our children, education, to own property, to divorce, have a career and to vote, came through Acts of Parliament from 1836-1919 when Lady Astor took her seat. How grateful we are to live now with all our freedoms, granted due to the actions of women in previous centuries. Our meeting in late November saw members demonstrating the making of non-cooked Xmas sweetmeats, with useful recipe and tips swaps.

Our next meeting will be on Tuesday 8th December at 7pm in Broadhembury Hall when our Christmas celebration will be a bring and share melange! For information about coming to see us, please contact Angie Carr on 841862 or Julie Ashcroft on 841189. You'd be very welcome.
